

Missing the point

VISITING Rabbi Sylvan Kamens correctly states: “What about presidents of Orthodox congregations who are adulterers — are they any less culpable in terms of averot (sins) than a homosexual?” (AJN 23/2/01)

Somehow, however, I miss the point: perhaps I have not attended his shiurim and am not trained in Conservative thinking. When I see a Jewish float in the Gay Mardi Gras labelled “Adulterous Jewish Synagogue Presidents”, I may reconsider my membership of an Orthodox congregation.
