JOSHUA LEVI

A TEAM of Dayenu members will participate in a seven-kilometre fun run on February 5 to raise money for JewishCare.

Dayenu president Roy Freeman said the two organisations are joining forces to provide support services for people who are same-sex attracted.

“This is great for the community and we are very excited about this opportunity to raise funds for JewishCare and we look forward to working more closely with them in the future,” Freeman said. “They do wonderful work and we hope to raise more than $1800 for them.”

Dayenu provides social activities, as well as support, education and information for Jewish gays, lesbians, bisexuals, trans and intersex people and their friends and families.

“JewishCare is thrilled to welcome Dayenu into our family of supporters,” JewishCare CEO Claire Vernon said.
